

MEDIA ALERT

1 July 2013

Addressing the challenges of population ageing

Population ageing is a global phenomenon. While individual nations are at different stages in the demographic transition, the trend is clear. The economic and social impact of demographic change is generating increasing research and policy attention.

CEPAR is bringing together leading academics, senior policymakers and practitioners to share new research and industry and policy perspectives on the dynamics of the ageing demographic at the

1st CEPAR International Conference

Analysing Population Ageing: Multidisciplinary perspectives and innovation

July 2 and 3

Scientia Building, University of New South Wales

Fiscal, labour force, family, health, and financial issues will be discussed.

Keynote speakers

Eileen Crimmins, Professor of Gerontology in the Davis School of Gerontology at the University of Southern California will present a paper on:

The World-Wide Physiological Revolution: Variability in the Physiology of Ageing

9:30-10:30am July 2.

Michael Keane, Visiting Professor of Economics at the University of Oxford, will present a paper on:

Complex Decision Making and Cognitive Decline

4:00 – 5:00pm July 2

Theo Nijman, Professor in Econometrics and Finance at Tilburg University, Netherlands, will present a paper on:

Adequate Insurance against Longevity, Financial and Inflation Risks

9:00 – 10:00am July 3

James Nazroo, Professor of Sociology at the University of Manchester, United Kingdom, will present a paper on:

Age, Wellbeing and Inequality: Evidence from the English Longitudinal Study of Ageing

1:00 – 2:00pm July 3

For more information contact Melanie Brake on 0479 072 233