

Night view of city, Federation Square and Princes Bridge from Southbank – Travel Victoria

Emerging Researchers in Ageing in partnership with the
Monash University Dementia, Ageing and Neurodegeneration Network present

17th National Conference of Emerging Researchers in Ageing

Bringing Researchers and the Community Together

19 – 20 November 2018 | Monash University, Caulfield Campus, Victoria, Australia

CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

'ERA 2018'

The 17th National Conference of Emerging Researchers in Ageing is being hosted by the Monash University Dementia, Ageing and Neurodegeneration Network, and chaired by Dr Sharna Jamadar.

Call for Abstracts

The ERA 2018 Conference Organising Committee warmly invites the submission of abstracts for oral and poster presentations from Master, PhD, and Professional Doctoral students, and early career researchers engaged in ageing-related research from any discipline.

The Call for Abstracts is now open and will close on 29 June 2018.

The Abstract Submission Guidelines and Abstract Submission Form are available from era.edu.au/ERA+2018

Registration

Online conference registration will open in June 2018 via Monash University.

Further information

Please refer to the conference website era.edu.au/ERA+2018 and follow ERA on Twitter @ERA_Australia | #ERA2018Monash

Keynote speakers

Professor Susan Kurrle is a geriatrician practising at Hornsby Ku-ring-gai Hospital in northern Sydney and is the Curran Professor in Health Care of Older People in the Faculty of Medicine at The University of Sydney, where she leads the NHMRC Cognitive Decline Partnership Centre. Prof Kurrle's research focuses on aspects of dementia care.

Laureate Professor Rob Sanson-Fisher AO is Director of the Priority Research Centre for Health Behaviour at the University of Newcastle. His current research interests include exploring health care provider behaviour and adoption of best evidence practice, and the development, implementation and evaluation of interventions to improve health outcomes for vulnerable population groups.

Post-conference workshops

Community Voices

This workshop will bring emerging researchers together with members of the community to discuss the impact of research and potential future research directions.

Publishing your Research

This workshop will bring emerging researchers together with editors of leading academic journals to discuss how to get research published, and how to get publications noticed.